

How's your democracy treating you lately?

Where's the revolutionary in you?

What matters to you right now?

- Angry about tuition hikes?
- Concerned about climate change?
- Nervous about getting a job?

What are you going to do about it?

It's your turn. It's your time. Join the new revolution.

Students across California are coming together to learn how to be better activists, organizers, and game changers. This 3-day skills and issues training event is designed to help you turn your passions into priorities in our democracy.

July 22-24, Berkeley, Calif.

The training event is free and open to all students in California. To apply, send your resume and a short statement about your past or current organizing experience and your goals for activist training to hgrieco@commoncause.org by June 30.

PEOPLE. ACTION. DEMOCRACY.
