Common Cause PA invites you to celebrate the work of four extraordinary individuals who are making a difference in their communities and building a better democracy in Pennsylvania. Please join us as:

Judy Wickes is presented with the Bob Edgar Public Service Achievement Award for her 40 years of civic engagement and community service in Philadelphia and beyond. She's used her business expertise and contacts to encourage business and government to play more active roles in community development. Her example influenced new models of public-private partnerships to develop more sustainable systems of support and in the process, elevated women's roles in business and government.

Denny O'Brien is presented with the Champion of Good Government Award. The award is presented to individual who has led efforts to elevate the quality and integrity of government in Pennsylvania. O'Brien exemplified these qualities in his role as Speaker of the PA House of Representatives where he established the Speaker's Commission to explore ways to make the House work better.

Amanda Holt is presented with the Bob Edgar Public Service Achievement Award for her ground-breaking work in challenging Pennsylvania's electoral redistricting plan. Ms. Holt challenged the state's redistricting maps in court, which for the first time, led the Supreme Court to overturn a redistricting plan and required the Commission to more closely adhere to constitutional standards.

John Baer is presented with the Media Award for his lifetime of excellence in reporting on public affairs, outstanding coverage of issues of openness, ethical conduct and accountability and in educating the public on the importance of these issues.
