

From: "Smith, Abby" <abismith@ebay.com>

Date: December 5, 2014 at 5:26:10 PM EST

To: "JRiesterberg@commoncause.org" <JRiesterberg@commoncause.org>

Subject: FW: eBay's membership in the American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC)

Hi Jay,

In follow up to your question to John Donahoe, below is eBay's response.

"As a global company, with broad business and public policy interests worldwide, we engage with a diverse range of trade associations and public policy advocacy groups. We only work with ALEC on one area and that is to support small businesses and help to protect them from threats including unfair tax legislation and state and local legislative issues. This helps enable our sellers' voices to be heard just as loudly as those with vast resources and assets that no small business can match on their own. While we do not agree with ALEC on other issues, including climate change, we believe we can still work collaboratively on this specific area. We review our membership on an annual basis and are doing so currently for 2015.

eBay believes strongly in environmental leadership and stewardship. We are proud of our leadership on climate change, and we intend to continue being a strong voice for both climate change and small business. More details can be found at <http://www.ebayinc.com/social-innovation/enabling-greener-commerce>."

Best,

Abby

Abby Smith

Senior Director, Corporate Communications

abismith@eBay.com

cell: 408-839-6028