Time To Step Up If You Want Good Government In Hawaii

Here at Civil Beat we think it would be great to be on the state Ethics Commission or the Campaign Spending Commission. Holding those politicians and government officials feet to the fire when it comes to public accountability would be awesome. And a great public service.

So why are the commissions having so much trouble finding people to fill the commissioners' seats, a couple of which have been vacant for many months?

That's apparently been an ongoing problem and now some good government groups want that to change.

The Hawaii chapters of Common Cause, the League of Women Voters and Kanu are sponsoring an informational meeting for people who might be interested.

Executive directors and some current commission members are expected to be on hand to explain what they do and what the requirements are.

The meeting is set for 5 p.m. Thursday, April 18, at the lieutenant governor's office on the fifth floor of the State Capitol.

For more information or to RSVP for the workshop, send an email to april18workshop@gmail.com or call call 808-528-6888.
